Will Shuster's art has been exhibited at this museum many times during his life and posthumously. Information about these exhibitions can be found in the museum's exhibition files and corresponding catalogs.

The Governor's Gallery Collection also contains files about exhibitions of Shuster's work held at the State Capitol.

The Marjory Hansen Collection contains Christmas cards from Shuster and his friends who are mentioned in this collection.

The The Jamison Galleries Collection includes additional Shuster materials in Box 66, Folders 172-A to 172-C. Included is some 50 Polaroid color prints of his works, donated to Jamison by John A. Shuster, Will Shuster's second son. Some of this material duplicates items in this main Shuster Collection, but not all.
Introduction

The Contents list that follows indicates the nature of the material in each of the Sections. Because the material could not be fully examined before inventory work began, frequently later discoveries properly belonged in earlier boxes.

For example, many of the photographs in Section XIV-A [pages 63-70, incl.], discovered toward the end of assembling efforts, could have been included in Section I [Family Matters] or Section IV [Special Projects] or in the Sections comprising Pictorials. But to do so would have required excessive recasting of this inventory.

Mindful of this, those who inspect this Collection should carefully scan the Contents list so as to correlate material with overlapping or related identifications.

* * * * *

The materials in this collection were used by Joseph Dispenza and Louise Turner to write the book Will Shuster: A Santa Fe Legend and several of the photographs from this collection were reproduced in that publication.

Biographical Comments

Will Shuster (William Howard Shuster, Jr., called by his friends "Shus") was a versatile New Mexico artist, sculptor, inventor and writer, who, in his own words, "Arrived in Santa Fe [on] March 3rd, 1920 with tuberculosis, a wife, two bed rolls and a determination to establish a new career in the field of art which had previously been an avocation."

He was born in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania in 1893 where he received his formal education. He built a house, adobe style, on Camino del Monte Sol, and quickly became one of a group of five painters, Jozef Bakos, Fremont Ellis, Wladyslaw Mruk, Willard Nash, and himself, who called themselves Los Cinco Pintores, which became identified with the modern art movement of the period, avant-garde and somewhat radical.

One of his most noted achievements was the creation in 1926 of Zozobra (Old Man Gloom), a gigantic effigy which has been burned each year since as the opening spectacle of the Santa Fe Fiesta.

For a number of years before making art his career, he worked first after World War I in the laboratory of Philadelphia Electric Company, and then as the efficiency expert with Curtis Publishing Company.

He married Helen Hasenfus in 1918, and born of the marriage was Don Byron Shuster, 1921. Following his divorce in 1935, he married Selma ("Sami") Schaumann in 1937. There are pictures and painting of both women in his collection. A second son, John Adam was born to the couple. Linda, Selma's daughter by a previous marriage, became his step-daughter.

"Shus" died on February 9, 1969 at the age of 75 and is buried in the Santa Fe National Cemetery.

SECTION III: WORLD WAR II AND DISABILITY CLAIMS

Preliminary Comments

WS was gassed during his overseas service in World War I. That injury together with pulmonary problems dating from his childhood which directly led him to move from the East to Santa Fe, forced him to seek a military allowance after the first World War by way of disability claims.

In this section, we have organized first, papers relating to World War II and then voluminous material relating to WS disability claims that continued to occupy his time and efforts until World War II and to require V.A. Hospital care long after that latter war. It was finally resolved in WS' favor in August 1935, some 17 years after the injuries were suffered!

The material is divided into the following categories.

A. World War II papers.
B. Correspondence - disability

Box 3

A. World War II Papers

1. Line Cuts (2), also called mats, on yellow plastic. Approx. 7 1/8 x 10 1/8. October 1939

   Both line cuts were made by WS, and at least one of them appeared in The Santa Fe New Mexican on p.1 of the issue for October 28. 1939 [see Folder 2, infra], labeled Pandora's Box and opposed repeal of U.S. arms embargo.

   Front page cartoon by WS [see Folder 1, supra].

   Short articles, letters to New Mexico Examiner by WS vigorously opposing departure of U.S. from embargo of combatants in Europe. Letter of others pro and con.

"This is the cartoon which was censored by the Mayor of Santa Fe who prevented its inclusion in Laughing Horse No. 17"
6. Photo, black and white, 7 7/8 x 9 ½.

Also: Original pen and ink World War I cartoon on cardboard, 4 x 9, of irate Sergeant addressing WS: "Shake th' lead etc." Reverse side, inscription by WS: "Received from Cyrus Baldridge while  hospitalized in VA Hospital in San Francisco. January. 1967." Cartoon by "Sergeant Cyrus."

B. Correspondence on Disability Claims of WS (1917-1953)

The correspondence is too voluminous to permit a listing of each communication. Accordingly, it is filed separately by year, in strict chronological order, with comments made only for especially significant items, which are earmarked with blue tags numbered and lettered to correspond to their references below. A perusal however, of the full correspondence will reveal the perseverance and, often, the amusement of WS over the Mills of the Gods which grind so slowly.

It should be noted that shortly after his initial application for disability pay was rejected, he vowed to fight this, "new war" as long as it took. And pursuing that end, he enlisted the aid of countless friends, U.S. Senators, Congressmen, and other officials whose efforts on behalf of WS are reflected in their correspondence to WS and to federal agencies.

SECTION IV : SPECIAL PROJECTS

A. Zozobra

Preliminary Comments

One of the principal claims of WS to eminence in Santa Fe is his creation of Zozobra, the monumental effigy of Old Man Gloom which is torched each year at the advent of Santa Fe's Fall Fiesta Season. His first design was made in 1926, and to this day - the image is now owned by the Kiwanis Club - is constructed and burned, to the glee of thousands who witness the show, as a symbolic destruction of gloom and despair.

The photographs found in the folders of this section are supplemented by 57 color transparencies and 22 black and white prints in Section XXII.

The material in this section is divided into the following parts:

(i) Photographs of Zozobra effigies
(ii) Zozobra at the Tournament of Roses
(iii) Zozobra at El Nido Restaurant
(iv) Magazines, Articles, Publicity
(v) Zozobra script - Santa Fe Fiesta

B. El Toro Diablo

Preliminary Comments

The concept for El Toro Diablo emerged from an engagement by Rodeo de Santa Fe to produce a short comedy as a feature of a rodeo show, and to bring it to life with a great artificial creature that could be put to fire [fireworks] at the end of the program, as was done each year with real burning of Zozobra at the beginning of the annual Santa Fe Fiesta.

H. Inventions

Preliminary Comments

While WS' fame rests largely upon his artistic achievements and his design and creation of Zozobra, his talents were not exhausted in those areas. Less known to many, but astonishing in their scope, were his sallies into the field of mechanical inventions. They ran the full spectrum of ideas, some of much intrinsic value, others impractical; but all of them in the form of a nearly endless stream of drawings and specifications that began during World War I and ended shortly before his death.

The papers in this subsection (H) catalog these inventions. They are only generally itemized, but will fascinate anyone trained in engineering upon more intensive review.

1. Military designs for grenade and rifle launcher.
   In this Folder will be found preliminary plans specifications, and blueprints prepared by WS and an associate Lieutenant, one A. Foster Smith, for a discharging device for grenades fitted to rifles, and a design for a modified grenade. Correspondence and a report of the Engineering Bureau in the Office of the Chief Ordnance is included. Finally, included is a tongue-in-cheek photo of a Meterodynamic Atomic Mobile and a list of its components, all "designed" by WS.

2. Plans, drawings, and work notes for various inventions relating to, among many others -
   Water scooter, n.d.
   Resistance thermometer for furnace; November 28, 1940.
   Modified aerial bomb; October 4, 1940.
   Nursery lamps; January 15, 1937.
   Pyrometer; March 18, 1938
   Chemical solution to test for the presence of wood alcohol and diesel oil; 1933.
   With note by WS of its entry in that year's day book.
   V.T. Voltmeter; n.d.

SECTION VI
CARLSBAD Caverns

Preliminary Comments

The correspondence in Section VI relates entirely to the work done by WS in painting eight oils depicting the natural wonders in Carlsbad Caverns in Carlsbad, NM. Together with Walter Mruk, one of the Cinco Pintores, in 1924 he was lowered in a bucket into this yet unexplored cave, where with nothing more than lamps and the implements of their profession the two of two of them proceeded to sketch what they found, leaving it to WS later on create the eight oils.

Most of the letters reflect the efforts of WS to secure exposure of his work to the art world.

Photographs of these oils are to be found in color transparencies in Section XXIV, infra.

SECTION VIII : FIESTAS

Preliminary Comments

Santa Fe celebrates two Fiestas each year. The oldest one, Fiesta de Santa Fe, dates back to the year 1692, began to commemorate the gratitude to God when General Don Diego de Vargas recaptured the Royal City of the Holy Faith with little bloodshed. In 1926, there was added to the celebrations the fiery destruction of Zozobra, a paper and cloth effigy of Old Man Gloom, created that year by WS, and revived each year since then.

A second Fiesta, was revived by WS in 1938 called Fiesta de las Luminarias, the Festival of Lights, celebrates figuratively with candles and bonfires each Christmas Eve the lighting of the way of the Holy Family into Bethlehem.

Included in the Will Shuster Collection, and found in this Section VIII, are the few newspaper stories, clippings and writings pertaining to these two Fiestas saved by WS. In addition, however, photographs pertaining to these events are inventoried in later Sections under the heading PICTORIALS. A vast collection of flyers and playbills and play scripts for comedy melodramas (lampoons of local public individuals) produced by the Santa Fe Community and performed each year during Fiesta de Santa Fe repose in the archives of the History Library of the Palace of the Governors, along with schedules of the events that took place each Fiesta week from day to day.

SECTION XI: THE SLOAN-SHUSTER CORRESPONDENCE

Preliminary Comments

The lives of Will Shuster and John Sloan ran largely in tandem. Shuster lived in Santa Fe, Sloan back East. The letters they exchange are a significant element of the collection, since each artist expressed his innermost thoughts on the widest range of subjects.

Efforts are being made to track down the original letters. At the time of the organizing of this collection, however, all that are available are typewritten transcripts without any identification of the person who made these transcripts.

They cover the period roughly from the year 1920 to 1951. John Sloan died on September 8, 1951. His widow, Helen Sloan, notified Shuster by telegram on that date.

The transcriptions are found in Folders A to E of this Section XI, left in the order in which they were found. Folders are full of duplicates and much is out of chronological order.

In the two Addenda to this Collection [p. 94 et seq.] are photocopies of approximately 90 letters, between WS and Sloan and his family members, recently received from the Helen Farr Sloan Collection at the Delaware Art Museum. Many of the photocopy letters in the First Addendum are duplicates of transcriptions in the main portion of this Section.

The Second Addendum has nine Sloan letters received too late to include in the First Addendum. They are particularly interesting because these letters have whimsical sketches by Sloan that reveal his light side.

WS PHOTOS, PROJECTS, AND ACTIVITIES - SUPPLEMENTAL MATERIAL

Preliminary Comments

As was stated in the Introduction to this inventory, most if not all, of this material might have been incorporated in other Sections. Initial difficulties, however, in organizing all the material at the outset made it impractical to reorganize the Sections later on when this material came to light.

Cross-references will aid in correlating efforts by those who examine the contents of the Collection.

The artistic works of WS have featured in exhibitions since at least 1943, and surely will continue to be shown in the years ahead; not to mention such of his works that - like the fresco paintings on the garden walls of the Museum of Fine Arts in Santa Fe - require no sponsors or exhibitors to be seen and enjoyed. They, in particular, are a part of the very fabric of the culture of Santa Fe and the Southwest.

First Addendum

The Helen Farr Sloan Library at the Delaware Art Museum has graciously provided this Library of the Museum of Fine Arts with photocopies of such correspondence between WS and William Sloan as is contained in its Sloan Collection.

Only very few letters from William Sloan have been found although the WS letters frequently refer to - and answer - those of Sloan. The Sloan letters sent to this Library are most interesting, each one being profusely illustrated with pen and ink sketches by Sloan.

The closeness of the two men is attested to by the flow of letters over four decades. The earliest letter is dated November 30, 1920; the last one is dated September 9, 1951 sent to Helen Farr Sloan, Sloan's second wife, shortly after her husband's death earlier that year.

John Sloan was born in the town of Lock Haven, Pennsylvania on August 2, 1871. He never finisfhted high school but in his early years he took an abiding interest in prints, teaching himself to etch at the age of 16 years. His talent as an artist emerged and flowered from that point forward.

In 1901, then 30 years old, he married Anna Marie (Dolly) Wall, a tiny Irish woman who was affectionately referred to by their friends as "Sloan's outboard motor". She did indeed dedicate her marital years to the development of his artistic career. Their 42-year marriage ended upon her death in 1943. As mentioned above, Helen Farr became his second wife.

John Sloan died in 1951.

Among many books about him, a somewhat detailed treatment of his life and works is to be found in the museum library. It is titled John Sloan in Santa Fe, written by James Kraft and Helen Farr Sloan. It is heavily illustrated with his paintings.

This Addendum is limited to a listing of the photocopies of WS - Sloan letters from the Helen Farr Sloan Library.

F. Third Addendum

Preliminary Comments

Still more records, photographs, a quantity of copper etching plates, and physical properties that belonged to Will Shuster have been recently donated to the Archives of the museum library by Helen Shuster, the widow of Don Shuster, who was the son of Victor and Helen Shuster (his first wife).

While many portions of this material fit within categories encompassed by earlier donations previously digested, it is not practical to amend and supplement those digests. Hence, one must be prepared to find a certain amount of overlapping and duplication in earlier Sections and those that follow.

Two Comments are in order. First, the material in this Third Addendum relating to military matters derives from the fact that Shuster saw action in the first World War. Sections II, supra.] Second, material relating to the Annual Rodeo of Santa Fe stems from his production of El Toro Diablo, which the Rodeo officials commissioned him to design. Sections IV, B. and XIV-A, G.]
